Good afternoon Ben

Thank you for your email. I can confirm that our advices continue to be that no written verdict/reasons for decision have been made public in relation to the Crown staff who were arrested in China. Joshua Preston, Crown's Chief Legal Officer, will contact the VCGLR should this position change.

Please let me know if you have any queries or concerns.

Regards

Subject: VCGLR - Request for information

Dear Ms Fielding,

Good afternoon, my name is Ben Considine and I am one of the Inspectors within the Investigations Team, formally the Probity Team.

I refer to Jason Cremona's letter dated 13 July 2017 with respect to the convictions of Crown Melbourne Limited employees in mainland China.

I have been appointed as the lead investigator for the Victorian Commission for Gambling and Liquor Regulation's review of these matters.

I understand that reasons/sentencing remarks have been released by the Chinese authorities in relation to the convictions. Could you please confirm whether or not this is the case and if such documents are available provide copies of documents and any available English translation of the documents as a matter of urgency.

Should you wish to discuss this matter further I can be contacted on [REDACTED] or by email [REDACTED]

Yours sincerely
